Subject: Author requesting permission to re-use a figure in PhD Dissertation.

Dear Tissue Engineering Staff,

I would like to re-use a figure from a manuscript I co-authored in my PhD Dissertation. It would be Figure 1 from:

I will be printing as many as 15 copies for my thesis committee and advisors and a few others.

Please let me know if this is acceptable. Thank you.

Guidelines for Permissions to Reproduce Material from the Journal of Bone and Mineral Research and the ASBMR Primer on the Metabolic Bone Diseases and Disorders of Bone and Mineral Metabolism

The American Society for Bone and Mineral Research (ASBMR) retains ownership of all material printed in the Journal of Bone and Mineral Research (JBMR) and the ASBMR Primer on the Metabolic Bone Diseases and Disorders of Bone and Mineral Metabolism.

The ASBMR may approve or refuse permission to reproduce JBMR or Primer material, or may request modifications to the method of presentation or citation. (See below for specific restrictions and some reasons permission may be withheld.)

The American Society for Bone and Mineral Research may charge a fee for use of copyrighted material. In cases in which a fee is applicable, the client will receive an invoice from the ASBMR Publications office.

Permission requests should be sent to the Managing Editor of the JBMR (contact information below) well in advance of print (or use) date; all requestors will receive a response within two business days (this response may be a request for additional information). A permission request form is available on the permissions section of our web site (www.jbmronline.org).

Annual Meeting Abstracts

The Society does not provide permission for other entities to reproduce and/or distribute selected abstract(s) prior to their presentation at the meeting. The Abstracts book is distributed on site but contents are embargoed until one hour after the time of their presentation. The CD-ROM and Abstracts On-Line may be made available for viewing prior to presentation by written permission of the ASBMR, but contents are embargoed until one hour after the time of their presentation.

All permission requests for reproduction of meeting abstracts must be directed to the Managing Editor of the JBMR. The request should include:
- The abstracts to be reproduced full text, with abstract authors and title, and abstract number and page number as they appear in the JBMR supplement.
- An accompanying reference list that provides the references of all abstracts on the same topic. This list will be reviewed and approved/modified by the JBMR editorial office; this reference list must be printed/distributed with the full text reproduction of the selected abstracts.
- The number of copies to be distributed
- The method of distribution
- The intended audience

Should ASBMR grant permission for abstract reproduction, the following must occur:

A disclaimer must be prominently displayed/printed (oftentimes this appears on the inside front cover), indicating that the choice of abstracts to reproduce full-text was not made by the ASBMR. Example: Selection of abstracts was made by [company name] and does not necessarily include all abstracts presented on this subject as the [28th] Annual Meeting of the American Society for Bone and Mineral Research [Philadelphia, PA, USA, 09/15-19/2003]. The compilation does not constitute an endorsement by ASBMR of the product, assay or information contained herein. No responsibility is assumed, and responsibility is hereby disclaimed, by the American Society for Bone and Mineral Research for any injury and/or damage to persons or property as a matter of product liability, negligence or otherwise, or from any use or operation of methods, products, instructions or ideas presented in the abstracts. Independent verification of diagnosis and drug dosages should be made. Discussions, views and recommendations as to medical procedures, choice of drugs and drug dosages are the responsibilities of the authors.

Translations (see official ASBMR translation policy, below).
Translations must carry a disclaimer in English and in the language of the translation: The American Society for Bone and Mineral Research takes no responsibility for the accuracy of the translation from the published English original and is not liable for any errors which may occur. No responsibility is assumed, and responsibility is hereby disclaimed, by the American Society for Bone and Mineral Research for any injury and/or damage to persons or property as a matter of product liability, negligence or otherwise, or from any use or operation of methods, products, instructions or ideas presented in the Journal. Independent verification of diagnosis and drug dosages should be made. Discussions, views, and recommendations as to medical procedures, choice of drugs and drug dosages are the responsibility of the authors.
The two versions (English and other language) of the disclaimer must appear on the inside front cover or at the beginning of the translated material.

Because the ASBMR must protect itself from the appearance of prejudice toward or against any diagnostic test, therapeutic product, company or editorial position, all permission requests are carefully reviewed and in some cases permission may be withheld. The ASBMR may in particular refuse permission for reproduction of images or material closely associated with the ASBMR/JBMR (example: J Bone Miner Res 1986; 15-21, Dempster et al., Figure 5), if such reproduction is deemed inappropriate, non-scientific, or too closely associated with another organization or entity. In addition, the ASBMR may request that such images be reproduced with the ASBMR logo embedded in the image or material or directly beside the image, text or other material.

Philosophy of Foreign Language Editions: The Journal of Bone & Mineral Research and the ASBMR Primer on the Metabolic Bone Diseases and Disorders of Bone and Mineral Metabolism are official publications of ASBMR, and the Society has no driving interest to develop foreign language editions of the journal. However, from time to time, the Society will allow production of foreign language excerpted versions of these publications, provided that certain conditions are met:

1. Editorial control remains the prerogative of the Society. This means that foreign language editors will be selected by the Editor with advice and approval of the Publications Committee. When it is intended to publish only selected papers or chapters in foreign language versions, selection of material will be subject to approval by ASBMR Publications Office. This is to assure that such editions do not appear to be biased, such as toward or against any product, or laboratory test. Translation accuracy may be done independently at the request of the Editor or the Publications Committee, with costs remaining the responsibility of the sponsor. Approval of potential sponsors of translated editions by the Publications Office will be required.

2. No financial liability for the entire project will devolve upon the Society. All expenses involved in translation and validation of translation accuracy, publication costs, etc. are the responsibility of the foreign language sponsor.

3. Publisher: The American Society for Bone and Mineral Research is the exclusive Publisher of the JBMR and the ASBMR Primer.

4. The ASBMR logo and cover designs remain the exclusive property of the Society, and may be used only with written permission of the Society.

5. The Society has no current interest in coordinating or restricting the sponsorship of foreign language products. However, the Society does retain the right to grant or refuse authorization for a potential sponsor and review and approve all potential advertising.

6. Financial: The Society requires adequate and appropriate compensation for the use of its name, its prestige, and the effort it has expended in producing the original versions of the papers nominated for translation.

7. Parties interested in sponsoring a foreign language edition of ASBMR publications should submit a proposal to Ms. Adrienne Lea, ASBMR Communications Director, who will evaluate it and forward it to the Publications Committee for additional comment and approval. Upon approval, sponsors will be directed to work out a satisfactory contract with the ASBMR under the direction of the Communications Director.
