Four Dedications.

No 1.
All for You.

All for you is the bud of the rose
On the flowering tree.
All for you is the path of gold
On the sunset sea.
All for you are the years gone by
And the years to be.

All for you is the smile of the brook
As it dances by.
All for you are the flowers on the earth
And the stars in the sky,
All for you are beats of my heart
Till I die, till I die!

Helen Taylor.

No 2.
To a Bygone Spring.

Only a flash of shining wing
Over the April blue,
Bringing me dreams of a bygone spring,
Bringing me thoughts of you.

Only a love remember'd glade,
Under a heathen sky,
Blossoms are born to fall and fade
And hearts to say goodbye.

Only a flash of shining wing
Over the April blue,
Bringing me dreams of a bygone spring,
Bringing me thoughts of you.

Helen Taylor.
No. 3.

How Wonderful!

To live, and drink the golden air,
Amid the leaves and blossoms fair,
How wonderful, how wonderful!
To hear the woodland mistrelsy,
From every waving tree,
How wonderful it seems to me!
How wonderful! How wonderful!

To love in sweet and wayward spring,
When all the world is blossoming,
How wonderful! How beautiful!
To love and dream enchanted dreams,
By fair and flowing streams,
How wonderful a thing it seems!
How wonderful! How beautiful!

To meet, one all triumphant hour,
With life in flood and love in flower,
To find at last a world of bliss
In one immortal kiss,
Most wonderful of all it is!
Most wonderful of all!

Helen Taylor.

No. 4.

Carillon.

I'll ring my love on a chime of gold,
With a swaying and swinging, a rolling and ringing,
Till the tale of joy a-far be told,
With a rhyming and a chiring, a swaying and ringing,
And ever on, as the music swells,
Young lovers hear, and smiling say,
"O hark, the sound of marriage bells,
To the rolling and ringing, the swaying and swinging,
Golden bells, marriage bells,
They ring for a bridal long leagues away."

I'll ring my love on a chime of gold,
With a rolling and a rhyming, a calling and chiming,
Till eyes grow dim and hearts grown cold
 Shall kindle and burn at its calling and chiming,
And ever on, as the music swells,
True lovers know, and smiling say:
"O hark, the sound of marriage bells,
With a swaying and swinging, a rolling and ringing,
Golden bells, marriage bells,
They ring for a bridal long leagues away."
