MARGUERITE

WORDS BY CARTER S. COLE

MUSIC BY HARRIET WARE

6

HIGH VOICE
LOW VOICE

THE JOHN CHURCH COMPANY
Cincinnati  New York  Chicago  Leipzig  London
MARGUERITE

Have you seen a rose half blown
When the dew has kissed its face,
Growing silently alone
Still unconscious of its grace.

When the sun has shed its light,
Giving fuller life and bloom?
Then you see a wondrous sight
Added to the rare perfume.

Such a budding, blushing maid,
Natural and fair and sweet,
Happy, singing, unafraid,
You can see in Marguerite.

—CARTER S. COLE
Marguerite

CARTER S. COLE

Andante

VOICE

Have you seen a rose half-blown,

CELLO

Pespressivo

PIANO

When the dew has kissed its face, Growing silently alone

reed

Still unconscious of its grace? When the sun has

L.H.  L.H.

accel.

+ Cello part may be included in Piano Accompaniment when Cello is not used shed its light, Giving fuller life and bloom,

Then you see a wondrous sight, Added to the rare per-

Tempo I

fume. Such a budding blushing maid,
Natural and fair and sweet, Happy, singing,
unafraid, You will find in Marguerite.

In Marguerite.